Medjidieh Strikes Russian Mine in Black Sea and Is Torpedoed by Own Men, Who Are Rescued by Other Warships.

Turks Sink Two Russian Steamers and Send Mine Sweeper to Bottom at Dardanelles Entrance.

Russian Bark and British Steamer Sunken by Submarine Off Isle of Wight — Three German Craft Lost in Baltic.

LONDON, April 5.—The loss of the Turkish cruiser Medjidieh from a Russian mine in the Black Sea, and the destruction of eight merchant vessels from mines or submarine attacks are reported in dispatches from various centers.

The Glasgow steamer Olivine and the Russian bark Hermes were sunk by a German submarine Sunday afternoon off the Isle of Wight. The crews of the two vessels took to their boats and were rescued by a British torpedo boat destroyer. The Hermes was a three-masted bark of 73 tons and carried 15 men.

A Berlin dispatch, received in Amsterdam, stated that Turkish headquarters had reported that the Turkish fleet Saturday was near Odessa, and that the cruiser Medjidieh, while pursuing the enemy mine-sweepers in the vicinity of the Fortress of Ochakov, struck a drifting mine and sank. Her crew was saved by Turkish warships. The sailors of the Medjidieh, the dispatch adds, before their ship sank, removed the breechblocks of the guns, and torpedoed the cruiser to prevent her from being refloated by the Russians.

The Medjidieh was an American built ship, having been laid down in Philadelphia in 1903. She was 331 feet long and 43 feet beam, and had a displacement of 3433 tons. She was armed with two six-inch guns, four 4.7-inch guns, six 3-pounds, six 1-pounds and two torpedo tubes. Her complement was 202 men.

The steamer City of Bremen of Dublin has been sunk by a German submarine off Wolf Rock, in the English Channel about 15 miles south of Lands End, Cornwall. Four members of the crew of the steamer were drowned. Twelve survivors have arrived in Penzance.

Available shipping records do not contain the name of the steamer City of Bremen of Dublin.

A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm says the German steamer Grete Hemmuth has struck a mine in the Baltic and sunk and that 25 members of her crew were drowned. The Grete Hemmuth was a vessel of 1564 tons. She was en route in traffic between Sweden and Germany.

"A dispatch from Malmo, Sweden," says Reuter's Copenhagen correspondent, "asserts that two German sailing steamers during the last few days have struck floating mines and sunk in the Baltic Sea in immediate proximity to the route between Trelleborg and Samsen, with which point traffic has been temporarily suspended. The crews of the steamers were saved. Some of the men have been landed at Samsen."

Berlin Hears Forces Have Been Disembarked Near Dardanelles Entrance.

BERLIN, April 5 (by wireless to Sayville)—Included in the reports given out today by the Overseas News Agency is the following:

"Dispatches received in Berlin from Constantinople say there has been no change in the Dardanelles situation."

"A message received here from Athens estimates at more than 30,000 the number of Anglo-French troops which have been landed on the Island of Lemnos near the entrance to the Dardanelles."

"An article appearing in the Tarim of Constantinople expresses the idea that inasmuch as the English will not be able to reach Constantinople before the Russians get there, the former intend to occupy the islands at the entrance to the Dardanelles, positions from which it would be possible to checkmate Russia in the future."

"The Russian fleet, after its operations in the Bosphorus, undertook March 24 a further attack on Eregli, a black port in Asia Minor. A total of 2000 men were fired. Nine barges in the port were sunk and four houses on shore damaged. There were no causalities and coal is coming from Eregli as usual. A Russian aviator was driven off fire from the shore. The Russian fleet retired at noon."

Vienna Admits Reinforcements From Przemysl Compelled Retreat in Mountains.

VIENNA, April 5.—Report of the Austrian forces in the Beskid region of the Carpathians, where some of the heaviest fighting has occurred in the struggle for control of the mountain passes leading into Hungary, was announced yesterday at army headquarters. The statement is as follows:

"The presence of large Russian reinforcements arriving from Przemysl compelled the Austrian army to withdraw from the Beskid region."

"In the Carpathians fighting on both sides of the Laborca Valley continues. Yesterday we attacked the eastern heights and dislodged the enemy from several strong positions. Russian attacks east of Virazan were repulsed. In yesterday's engagements we captured 202 prisoners."

The Beskid Mountains form part of the boundary between Hungary and Galicia. They are a section of the great Carpathian range, the natural barrier upon which Austria-Hungary relies to halt the Russian advance. On the mountain heights and in the passes fighting has been in progress all winter, notwithstanding the snows and bitter cold.

JESSE COGGINS ON TRIAL FOR KILLING HIS STEPMOTHER

Prosecution Hints in Selecting Jury Death Penalty Will Be Asked.

INSANITY TO BE DEFENSE

Father of Youth, in Court, Says He Hopes Son "Will Get Limit."

Jessie E. Coggins, 16 years old, was placed on trial before Circuit Judge Cave in the Juvenile Court today on a charge of murdering his stepmother, Mrs. Olive Coggins, at her home, 400A North Twenty-first street, Jan. 5.

Circuit Attorney Harvey, personally conducting the prosecuting, indicated in questioning, veniremen that the State would demand the death penalty. "Coggins' age is no bar to the death penalty," the Circuit Attorney said. "The State will try to show it was a premeditated, cold-blooded murder."

Counsel for Coggins, in affidavits filed a month ago in support of a motion for a continuance, indicated the defense would be insanity, due to prenatal influence. Ernest J. Oakley Jr. and John P. Leahy represent Coggins.

Another Hopes He "Will Get Limit."

One of the most interested spectators was the prisoner's father, A. J. Coggins, who now lives at 1132 Tudor avenue, East St. Louis. He sat in the rear of the courtroom. Just before the trial began he told reporters he hoped his son "would get the limit."

"I have not seen that boy for a year and I do not want to see him," the father said. "I gave him every opportunity, but he was just bad. He even stole money from me and disappeared when I was sick with rheumatism. I did not drive him from home, and he has stayed here ever since." Mother Hopes He "Will Get Limit."

About a third of the spectators in the crowded courtroom at the morning session were women, among them representatives of the Kirkwood W. C. T. U., which had interested itself in the Coggins case to the extent of seeking counsel for him.

Coggins, while the venire was being examined, kept his head lowered and his eyes upon the floor, although occasionally he glanced for a moment at the veniremen.

ZEPPELIN FAVERS AERIAL ATTACK ON LONDON NOW

Count Criticizes Captains of Dirigibles for Not Making Raids of Longer Duration.

By Associated Press.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 5.—The German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich still lay at her wharf today with no outward evidences of whether she would move to sea or not.

Admiral Beatty, commanding the Norfolk Navy Yard, boarded the Prinz Eitel at noon to confer with Commander Thierichsen and soon afterward two commercial tugs arrived at the Eitel's stern, received orders and tied up at a nearby pier.

Several British vessels cleared from here today. No others appeared to be ready for sailing. The naval patrol of the harbor continued and the guard at the Eitel's pier was not relaxed.

Speculation as to the course of the Eitel's commander was general and the word brought ashore by the Eitel's sailors was conflicting. Some insisted the ship would leave but "might come back," and others remarked that any chance for getting through the cordon of hostile ships outside had been lost.

Admiral Beatty, commanding the Norfolk Navy Yard, boarded the Prinz Eitel at noon to confer with Commander Thierichsen and soon afterward two commercial tugs arrived at the Eitel's stern, received orders and tied up at a nearby pier.

The Count said that the full power of the Zeppelins had not been employed and that longer raids than any hitherto were possible. He also said that there was too much of a disposition to await favorable weather conditions instead of responding without delay to military command. He believed that an attack on London and the Lower Thames had been delayed unnecessarily.

The Count also is understood to have criticized his captains for retreating from hostile airmen.

THREE FAIL TO APPEAR TO ANSWER SPEEDING CHARGES

Had Been Allowed to Sign Own Bonds; Chicago Man Fined $25 by Default.

GERMANY IS ASKED TO PAY $229,059 FOR SINKING FRYE

Brief American Note for Reparation in Case of Ship Destroyed by the Prinz Eitel Presented by United States.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The American note to Germany on the sinking of the American sailing ship William P. Frye by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, was made public here today. It is very brief. It is confined principally to a recital of the legal aspects of the sinking of the Frye and in polite and diplomatic language suggests that Germany make "reparation."

This is the text of the instruction to Ambassador Gerhard:

"You are instructed to present the following note to the German Foreign Office:

"BRYAN."

American Note to Britain Inquiry Rather Than Protest.

LONDON, April 5.—It may be stated that good authority that the American note on the British Order in Council is an inquiry rather than a protest. It seeks further information in regard to the attitude of Great Britain and makes clear under what conditions the United States will expect damages for interference with shipping.

"Under instructions from my Government I have the honor to present a claim for $228,059.54 with interest from Jan. 28, 1915, against the German Government on behalf of the owners and Captain of the American sailing vessel William P. Frye for damages suffered by them on account of the destruction of that vessel on the high seas by the German armed cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich on Jan. 28, 1915.

"The facts upon which this claim arises and by reason of which the German Government is held responsible by the Government of the United States for the attendant loss and damages are briefly as follows:

"The police practice of permitting automobile speeders to sign their own bonds had a discouraging result in both the city police courts this morning, when two defendants in Judge Sanders' court, and one in Judge Hogan's court, failed to appear to answer charges of speeding. Inquiry showed that S. Reid Holland, who was on Judge Hogan's docket to answer a charge of running 26 miles an hour on Delmar boulevard, west of Union, was a resident of Chicago, and that his name appeared on the bond as 2881 LaSalle avenue, Chicago. This speeder was overlooked in some manner by the police, who presumably would have required him to bring a resident bondsman if they had realized that Holland was a non-resident. Holland was fine $25 by default, but the city's prospect of collecting the fine is considered remote.

Defendants in Judge Sanders' court, whose names appeared on the dockets at Erwin Street of 3915 St. Louis avenue and Herman Kayser of 1493 Belmont avenue, and who had signed their own bonds, were fined $10 each, with $3 additional for bond forfeiture.

The police action was taken in the case of Charles Eberle of 606 Maple, who arrived in court late, after the forfeiture had been imposed.

Twenty-two speeders were fined in the two courts. Guy B. Bratton of 4714 Vernon avenue, paid $1 a mile, $35, for speeding 35 miles an hour on Grand Avenue, south of Chippewa street. Charles W. Pruett of 4622 Olive street was fined $2 for running his motor cycle 45 miles an hour on Washington boulevard, west of Vandeventer avenue.

DARDANELLES WILL REPEL ANY ATTACK OF ALLIES, SAYS VON DER GOLTZ

German Field Marshal Tells von Wiegand, Post-Dispatch Correspondent, Warships Cannot Withstand Fire of Fort Guns.

Mine Barrier, Untouched, Will Sink Fleet; Enemy Cannot Pay Price to Force Way In, He Declares.

Turks Have 250,000 Men in Field; Russian Reports of Victories Are Said to Be Exaggerated.

By Karl H. von Wiegand, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)
BERLIN, March 30 (via courier to Zurich, and by cable to London, April 3). — "The Dardanelles cannot be forced by the allied fleet. The famous Hellespont of the ancients will withstand the battering of the biggest and most modern ships. That's my confident belief, based on knowledge of the situation there."

So declared Field Marshal Baron von der Goltz Pasha to me tonight in his villa at Grunewald upon his arrival from Constantinople on a special mission of the Sultan to the Kaiser.

In appearance Baron von der Goltz is hardly within 10 of his 71 years, looking fresh despite his long and tiresome journey, and remarkably vigorous and active. The Field Marshal interestingly discussed the Turkish situation for more than half an hour with me.

Baron von der Goltz, who is regarded as the creator of the modern Turkish army, having served there as chief of staff for many years, was sent to Turkey by the Kaiser as military adviser to the Sultan when Turkey entered the war.

Confident Turks Will Stand.
My first question was: "Will the Dardanelles withstand the allied fleet?"

"Haven't they given pretty good proof of it?" was his answer. "All Turkey is jubilant over the severe repulse of the allies. I was confident, as everybody was, that the fleet could not get through. That a big modern fl. could sustain such heavy losses surprised us."

"I am not disclosing any military secrets when I tell you that the allied fleet point modern guns of big caliber and superior to the armament of the forces of the Dardanelles, as Turkey has not had millions to spend on them of late years, but the effectiveness of the middle caliber guns in the forts somewhat astonished us. The guns served admirably; even the heavy armor of the battleships apparently did not withstand the shells and high angle firing of these guns."

"Then there are the mines. So far none of the ships even reached the first real mine barrier, to and beyond which will cause losses to the fleet which perhaps even the allies do not wish to pay."

"Is it true that one or more ships penetrated 16 miles up the Dardanelles?" was my next question, and the answer flashed back:

"No. They didn't get quite that far. That's a bit overestimating it."

Does Not Fear Troops.
Baron von der Goltz appeared to think that without co-operation the unusually large landing force of the fleet could not take the Dardanelles. On this point he asked: "Where are the allies going to bring such a force from without seriously weakening themselves elsewhere?"

"Even if they had such a force near they would have to reckon with the Turks, who by no means are the demoralized and vanquished troops of the Balkan war any more. Turkey today is much underestimated, being judged largely upon the outcome of the war with Bulgaria and Serbia. Turkey especially lost much in the way of arms and equipment, but it is really surprising what has been done and accomplished in the way of rehabilitating the army by the tremendous energy and usefulness of Enver Pasha and the young Turk Government, which is working together in great unity."

"Turkey has placed a quarter of a million men in arms. Much has been done to improve the equipment, considering the limited means and facilities that were available. Especially is the commissary functioning splendidly done."

"There is a new spirit in the Turkish people. This is especially true in the army. The feeling of confidence and enthusiasm has not been so strong for years."

Fighting for Independence.
"The Turks feel that they are fighting for the independence of their country." Baron von der Goltz continued.

German Field Marshal Who Says Dardanelles Will Repel Allies

Field Marshal von der Goltz
© International News Service

"With the abrogation of the so-called capitulations, whereby the foreigners were exempt from Turkish tribunals, the Turks feel that they have something to fight for, and that is the right to govern their own country. They have won it, and they have won it in their own house and long辛苦地 in the way that was considered not worthy of a nation that the Greek and other foreigners could rob and murder a Turk and then run into the house of a countryman, where the Turks might not arrest and try to punish. The Turks are now fighting for that independence in a way which indicates that the old fighting spirit has returned."

"It is said that the Turks will lose because of the lack of ammunition." I volunteered.

"They have plenty for some time to come, and more than generally supposed," Baron von der Goltz answered.

"Besides the Turks have commenced to make their own ammunition."

"If the allies rely on that to defeat Turkey for them, they will have a long wait."

Asked about Russian reports that the Russians had annihilated several army corps of the Turks in the Caucasus, the Field Marshal laughed and said: "I wish that we had as many as there are reported captured and annihilated."

Only in one small section have the Russians secured a foothold in Turkish territory. The situation in the Caucasus is much like that in France and Belgium; both sides have dug themselves in, waiting for spring.

The suffering among both the Turks and the Russians has been terrible in the cold of the winter."

I asked the Field Marshal about the rumors of a revolution brewing in Constantinople against the Young Turks, especially that Enver Pasha is in daily danger of assassination. The answer came:

"The stories are spread by the allies, no doubt. I saw no indication of it. As for Enver, he is more and more becoming a hero. He is the great popular figure in Turkey, a sort of national hero."

"It is, of course, impossible to guard oneself against a fanatic who might attempt to take life."

"Enver is a remarkable man. I work for him daily, although I am nearly 40 years older, and consider him my superior officer and that I am there to help him. Our relations are most pleasant."

Fighting British Domination.
Baron von der Goltz declared that Turkey had no intention of touching the autonomy of Persia or Egypt and that Turkey was not waging a war of conquest, but wants to break British domination and influence, especially in Egypt. He characterized the Turkish attack on the Suez Canal as being more in the form of a reconnoiter in force, which did all that it was expected to accomplish. Despite the tremendous difficulties encountered in the desert, the Turkish force will not be withdrawn, but will remain constantly near, keeping the British constantly uneasy.

The Field Marshal said that the British were defending the Suez cleverly, floating batteries co-operating with the troops.

Baron von der Goltz remains with his family for 24 hours and leaves for Constantinople for the Pasha's headquarters, whence he departs for Constantinople, probably on Friday or Saturday.

He declined to discuss the purpose of his mission other than to bring greetings and a special war medalion from the Sultan to the Pasha.

From other reliable sources, however, I learn that Baron von der Goltz was on an important mission.

VOLUNTEER ARMY OF JAPANESE TO JOIN RUSSIANS

Force to Be Recruited in Manchuria Following Failure of Effort in Japan.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
TOKIO, March 8.—The project to organize and send a Japanese volunteer army to Europe has been abandoned. The promoters explain that they failed to get the Governmental sanction, which was judged necessary.

The police requested the promoters to discontinue the movement on the ground that it was harmful to public peace and order. The promoters, however, induced the Home Minister to withdraw the police order and sought to enlist the support of Count Okuma, the Premier. According to the promoters the Premier replied that he did not believe the project would harm Japan's diplomatic dealings. However, he considered the approval of the army necessary.

The plan was rejected by the military authorities for two reasons. The first was that if it were carried out it would affect the strength of the army in wartime, as the volunteers would naturally come from the ranks of reservists. The second reason was that the surplus arms of the army having already been sold to the allied Powers the army had no arms and ammunition available for the volunteers.

The promoters then decided to work for the dispatch of one regiment instead of two divisions, and applied to the army authorities for approval only to see the entire Republican ticket successful by 15,000 plurality. Chairman Meehan of the Democratic City Committee says he regards the election of Francis M. Curlee as President of the Board of Aldermen, as certain, and that the Democrats will elect the Aldermen at least half the wards.

The candidate in each ward receiving the greatest vote throughout the city will be elected. It may develop that a defeated candidate will have greater chances than a successful candidate in another ward.

The controversy between the Democratic and Republican organizations over the bipartisan plan of electing four School Board members, resulted in the Republican ballot carrying the names of four Republican candidates, and the Democratic ballot carrying the names of three Democrats. Voters may scratch any name and substitute another for it by writing it in the same space. Those who favor a bipartisan plan that has prevailed for many years, may write in the names on either ballot of two candidates on the other party ticket.

When McDonald withdrew from the Democratic ballot, the time had elapsed in which a substitute might be named under the law.

U. S. AEROPLANES DROP BOMBS

Experiments Made With Types Weighing From 15 to 50 Pounds

WASHINGTON, April 5.—As result of recent tests at the army aviation station at San Diego, bombs suitable for use with aeroplanes have demonstrated their practicability as to safety and certainty of action. The pear-shaped types weighed 15 pounds, while cylindrical types weighed 50 and 100 pounds each.

Details of the tests will not be disclosed, but it is understood the pear-shaped bombs were inaccurate in hitting the mark. The flight of the elongated type, however, was said to have been more accurate, the bombs striking within 20 or 30 feet of the mark from an altitude of 2000 feet.

"SARI" A BRIGHT HUNGARIAN GIPSY LOVE OPERETTA

Mizzi Hajos Is Pleasing Comedienne in Chief Role at the Olympic.

BY CARLOS F. HURD.

SEEING and hearing "Sari," at the Olympic Theater last night, one felt the charm of the half-gypsy land which is today none too securely sheltered by the Carpathian Mountains. Not even Lehár's "Merry Widow" or "Chocolat Soldier" was so charming an old-world idyl as this operetta of Emmerich Kalman—from whom, let us hope, the stage will receive much more.

So far as music can have a language, Kalman's score speaks the Magyar tongue. To call it Viennese, as the advance announcements did, seems inapt, and yet there are moments in the second act where the music seems about to glide into the melodies of the "Blue Danube." But still stronger is the suggestion at several places in the score, of passages in the rhapsodies in which Liszt, for all time, linked the names of Hungary and Music.

And when Mizzi Hajos, in the part of Sari, is on the stage, there is another charm than that of the music. This comedy role is too original to permit any close comparison, but it may be said that Sari contains a suggestion of Sissi Hopkins, with a resemblance to the beloved and forceful Betty of recent pulling-pins plays. Sari pulls the string-headed pull, the violinist, who surrounds the "gypsy factory" or training school for gypsy violinists, in the shadow of the Carpathians. Her father, Pali Racz, proprietor of the gypsy factory, has lost his cunning as a fiddler, but his son, Lazlo, trained in Budapest, has become an artist whose ability old Pali is the last to recognize. Another element of jealousy enters into the relations of father and son, as Jullika, whom the son loves, has been promised to the elderly and amorous Pali as his fourth wife.

To the "factory" come Count Irini, from Paris, bent on taking Pali back with him to play for his friends, and the Count's tutelary companion, Cadeaux, who is a compound of conservatism and dyspepsia. The Count's flirtation with Sari, which continues through the play, gives constant opportunity for mirth-making on the part of Miss Hajos—or Mlle. Hajos, or Fraulein Hajos, or whatever the proper prefix is. The dancing of the hazzaaz, which in its principal movement resembles a sack race, is a piece of comedy work both hilarious and refined.

The second act, starred in the Count's Paris home, presents the "Sari" gown collection beside which yesterday's master display on the boulevards would look tame indeed. Into the midst of these gorgeous gowns comes little Sari, in her even more resplendent Hungarian national costume, which requires a series of acrobatic feats before its wearer can sit down. The end, following the violin contest between father and son, finds Sari in a tawny Paris dress, advanced to the Count, and herself a Countess in advance of her marriage, through the obliging act of a King who chances to be present incog.

The best vocal work of the performance is done by H. W. Marsh and Irene Pawlowska, in the duets of Lazci and Jullika. J. K. Murray in Pali, the gypsy-leader, and the chief male comedy part that of Cadeaux, is in the hands of Bert Gillies, an Englishman. Charles Meekins appears as the Count. "Victorious Ever Is Youth" is the subtitle, and the dominant theme of the book, which is by Julius Wilhelm and Fritz Grunbaum, with the English book and lyrics by C. C. S. Cushing and E. P. Heath.

Tonight's performance of "Sari" will be the annual benefit of the College Club, which thus raises a fund for the education of St. Louis girls in Eastern colleges.

"OUR CHILDREN" HAPPY, TRUTHFUL HOME PLAY.

"OUR CHILDREN," a three-act play by Louis A. Anspacher, attracted a large audience to the Shubert last night. It mingled humor, pathos and truthful portrayal of a German family life was received with marked favor. The play is written around a song which appeared in a German opera about 50 years ago. In the opera, father and son would因果 together and get to disputing, then the father would sing of his great passion for his only son and trouble would be forgotten. The play is built upon the overpowering affection of a father for his son, which makes his forget all else: friends, and the song, which runs throughout the production, is robbed of its one-time comic nature.

Henry Kolker in the role of the father who would sacrifice all for his son showed great versatility. His humor and tremendous self-assertion, kept the audience laughing and attentive throughout, although the length of the lines and lack of stage action might easily make the piece tiresome in less capable hands.

One feature of the production, which carried especial appeal was the absolute faithfulness with which intimate details of a German family are presented. Hertha, daughter of Willybold Engle, the character presented by Kolker, is just the father's hard-working self-sacrificing girl, trained in countless German ways as "Stasi," lifelong friend of Engel, given another truthful characterization.

The plot centers upon Willybold, who has made a fortune in the shoe business in America, sacrificing his resources to start his son in business. The son's partner absconds and the father shoulders the debts. Before the crash comes he refuses to permit his daughter to marry the foreman of the factory whose inventions have made Willybold rich. She refuses to leave the man of her choice, and in the last act the daughter and her husband are able to save the son and father.

NEW CAR SIGNALS BEING TESTED

Electric Light System in Operation on Several Coaches.

A new safety signal system for starting and stopping is being tried out today on several cars of the closed rear vestibule type on the United Railways lines.

A green light directly in front of the motorman burns when the rear doors are closed, but goes out when they are opened. After the car has stopped the bell cord.

ringing of the green lamp is the motorman's signal to go ahead. The conductor no longer uses the bell cord to give a starting signal. The push buttons used by passengers communicate directly with a bell on the front platform. Heretofore this bell has been on the rear platform and after it rang it was necessary for the conductor to use the bell cord.

CHINA'S INTEGRITY ASSURED BY U. S., YUAN DECLARES

President of Republic Tells in a Midnight Interview of Promise by America.

NEW YORK, April 5.—President Yuan Shi Kai of China, in a midnight interview at Pekin with a correspondent of the New York Sun, declared the United States Government had recently sent assurances that China would not be dragged into the great war and that both the United States and France had disengaged Japanese effort to control additional Chinese territory.

He also made the significant statement that, at the beginning of the war, he understood that Russia and England were about to give Japan a free hand in Asia in compensation for 200,000 soldiers to be sent to Europe. Japanese garrisons were largely increased, but since then most of the added troops have been withdrawn.

Yuan Shi Kai was surrounded by high officials and diplomatic advisers when he gave the interview. Before answering some of the questions he discussed them with his counsellors.

Objects to Word Demand.
When asked whether the Chinese and Japanese Governments had come to an agreement about concessions demanded by Japan, he first asked an interpreter to give him an accurate translation of the word "demanded." When they had replied, he said the term "demanded" was too forceful and that perhaps "desired" or "sought for" would express it better. In the next breath, however, he admitted that the Japanese requests for a leasehold of Kiao-Chow, seized from Germany, and for additional military and mining concessions in Manchuria, were considerable in the nature of demands, if not actual aggression.

"The feelings of the Chinese Government," said President Yuan, "were communicated to Tokio, Washington, London, Paris and Petrograd. I myself appeared before the Japanese Commissioners and made the statement that, according to three separate and distinct treaties made between China and three of the other Powers, the cession of any Chinese territory without the consent of all parties to the treaties would be a violation of our sacred word. The request went for a time unanswered, but was made again, only to be disengaged the last time by both the United States and France.

The first appeal of all, he explained, was sent to England, as the ally of Japan. "Until very recently," he said, "satisfactory assurances were not forthcoming from London. The British Government has explained, however, that other and more vital affairs excluded China from consideration for the time being."

Kiaochow Seizure Term'd Robbery.
The President explained that he could see no justice in Japan's request that the German lease of Kiaochow be transferred to her. He characterized Germany's seizure of Kiaochow as robbery, based upon the flimsiness of pretenses. It once brought England and Germany to the verge of war, he said, and added that it would be silly for him to pretend he was not glad that it had been torn from Germany's clutches.

"After taking the territory from Germany," Yuan Shi Kai asked, "would it have been right for either Great Britain or Japan, or both of them to retain Kiaochow as their own? Would that not have been as if they were making war upon China? Both of these nations, England and Japan, had years ago declared that Germany's taking of Kiaochow was unnecessary aggression. Was Japan inconsistent when she asked—when her troops occupied the territory—that she be given a lease of it?"

China's great objection to the proposed Japanese railroad extensions in Manchuria, Yuan explained, was that along with the constructive work the Japanese desire to maintain military stations. Foreign capital is greatly desired, he said, to develop the possibilities of China, but he thinks that the Chinese are themselves able to give ample protection to railroads or other property. The Chinese people do not want foreign military stations scattered over their territory, no matter what the excuse might be.

Both business sense and tradition oppose the extension of mining concessions, the President declared. Only a fraction of the mines have been worked as yet. Mines are the property of the state and immemorial custom forbids that they be transferred to private owners.

Want Wealth in Manchuria.
"In one province alone we have more than 18,000 square miles of coal lands," said Yuan Shi Kai. "These lands hold enough coal, according to surveys made by German Government engineers, nine years ago, to supply the entire world for twenty centuries. In some of the western provinces recent surveys have indicated many rich deposits of gold, silver and copper. It would not be right for the Government to sell or to give perpetual leases of such properties, and, personally, I will oppose any such propositions with all my strength."

Yuan Shi Kai did not go into details of the United States assurances in the matter. He said they came by cable dispatches which were later confirmed through the mail. After saying he was glad the American position is not involved in the war, he continued:

"I think the United States is establishing a standard that will have great effect in all the future history of the human race, and it is my earnest wish and hope that when this war is over the fighting nations will ask the great American republic to take a leading part in negotiations that will bring a lasting peace upon the world."

Asked his opinion of the present war, Yuan Shi Kai, after a conference with his advisers, diplomatically evaded anything except general expressions of regret that there should be a war at all.

HERE IS PROOF THAT RESINOL STOPS ITCHING

The best evidence of what the Resinol treatment will do for YOUR tortured skin is what it has done for others. Here is a man whose WHOLE BODY was covered with tormenting exzema. When HE says that Resinol stops itching immediately, he knows what he is talking about. Just read his simple, straightforward letter:

"My entire body, even my eyelids, was completely covered with blisters. Being unable to sleep, I was unable to sleep, and I COULD NOT SLEEP nor rest. I think I had one of the worst cases of exzema a human being ever had."

"I used eight different kinds of remedies without success. I then tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and it stopped the itching IMMEDIATELY. I gradually noticed a change for the better. Now I am entirely cured."—(Signed) Edward P. McCullough, 249 River St., Boston, Mass., Aug. 11, 1914.

Now ask yourself this question: "If Resinol could heal THIS man's skin, will it not also heal mine?" You can get Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap at ANY drug store, or for free trial, write to Dept. 10-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

RIGHT TO CRITICISE WIFE'S GOWNS IS UPHELD BY JUDGE

But Court Grants Divorce to Woman Who Was Told She Looked Like Chorus Girl.

SHOULD TAKE AN INTEREST

Jurist Contends Husband Is Within His Province, if He Does Not Become Offensive.

In an after-Easter decision today, Judge Grimm ruled that a man has a right to criticize the gowns and hats worn by his wife and daughters.

When granting a divorce to Mrs. Floyd Blackburn in her suit against Roy H. Blackburn, the Judge made it clear that his decision was not based on her allegation that her husband told her that a hat and gown she wore made her look like a chorus girl.

On this point the decision said: "A man has a right and should be encouraged to give attention to the manner in which his wife clothes herself and is entitled to express his disapproval in emphatic language, if he thinks she is dressing in a way unbecoming to a modest married woman."

"It would be for the good of society generally if husbands and fathers took more interest in the dress of their wives and daughters and asserted their authority."

"I realize that some of the fair sex would resent an expression of opinion on matters they consider peculiar within their own ken by one whose expert knowledge is supposed to be confined to earning a living for the family, to politics, or baseball and other like subjects supposed to be of particular interest to him."

"But even more man is entitled to have views on the subject of woman's dress and should be permitted to express them to his wife, so long as he does not do so in an offensive manner. The Court did not see the costume in question and therefore cannot say whether the criticism was fair. The Court disclaims any competency to pass judgment on so delicate a matter, modestly admitting it has no knowledge whatever on the subject of how chorus girls dress, at least off the stage."

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

TROOPS ON GUARD IN ARENA; WORK AT RING DELAYED

Carpenters Strike Interferes With Seating Arrangements—Crowd Arrives Early.

By Robert Edgren,
A Staff Correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1915, by The Press Pub. Co.)
HAVANA, April 5.—Over in the grand stand one funny story connected with the fight is going the rounds. It is that the St. Louis Federals, training in Havana for five weeks, expected to see the fight. Fielder Jones took the team away this morning on the 10 o'clock boat, almost causing a riot among the players.

The sky was heavily clouded, but no rain was expected, as the time approached today for Jack Johnson and Jess Willard to battle for the heavyweight championship. A light northeast wind was blowing. All was confusion in the arena at 11 a.m. Wagons loads of chairs for the boxes were coming in. The ring was unfinished, and the padding and canvas were down. A half-dozen Americans were stretching ropes and wrapping them with tape, getting the felt padding and canvas ready to stretch on the floor. The carpenters went on strike, leaving the seats around the ring unfinished.

West and south of the ring on raised platforms were five moving picture cameras. Three hundred Cuban soldiers marched in and took stations around the arena carrying rifles with fixed bayonets and revolvers to prevent trouble during the fight. An unbroken line of soldiers, standing 10 feet apart, surrounded the ring the ring-side boxes. Thousands of Cubans came in early to occupy the unreserved seats. The small grandstand, a hundred yards from the ring, was well filled two hours before the fight.

At 11 o'clock the mutual machines in the betting ring showed Johnson the favorite at 10 to 6, with betting light. The only bet recorded at the ringside at that hour was $100 to $50 on Johnson.

There was a great rush along the roads from Havana. There is no speed limit here and no rules of the road, so machines turn to the left or right, as the driver pleases. There have been many minor collisions.

It was reported by arriving Americans, a large part of whom came by automobile, that five times the usual rates were being charged an hour before the fight by drivers.

Many boxes were filled with women and some children were on hand. Two military bands were playing in the grand stand. Hundreds of officers of the Cuban army were grouped around the ring in full uniform and American and Cuban flags were flying.

On a total play of $60,000 Frazer estimated that at 12:15 p.m., the mutinies showed Johnson a favorite at 10 to 8.

Johnson arrived 15 minutes before ring time.

The scene was wonderful. The immense crowd was moving through the aisles in the rush for seats, and the surrounding palm-topped hills were packed with people.

Johnson was given his money in his dressing room. The receipt for $25,000, the balance coming to him on his guarantees of $25,000, signed Jack Johnson was read from the ring through a megaphone by Announcer Mac. The crowd applauded Johnson's statement: "I expect to win. If I am beaten I will congratulate the best man I ever fought."

Mrs. Johnson took a seat in a ring-side box. She said, "Jack told me he is confident of winning, and I am sure he will knock Willard out."

The officials and Mike Gibbons were introduced from the rings.

An accident to Jess Willard threw a scare into the Willard camp last night. While Tex O'Rourke was rubbing Willard's arms with chloroform liniment Willard slapped his arm, pinching the liniment into his own right eye, which became intensely inflamed and swollen.

The eye was washed out with water and chemical solutions, reducing the inflammation so that although still red, he could see again.

Johnson Never Noted as a Hitter but He Knocked Out Stanley Ketchel

WILLARD was a trained man when he came here. He never displayed. He is 10 years younger than the champion. And the idea of fighting a man who has beaten the world doesn't seem to worry him in the least. He even a newcomer like Ketchel can't seem to him front one who has held it by veteran cunning and by might of arm and fist. Willard is the most dangerous boxer in the world.

Johnson has been noted as a heavy hitter. Still I don't doubt that when he wants to he can hit as hard as anyone. If he sees the chance he can do it as he did in the fight with Little Ketchel, uncork one terrific crashing blow to bring it back again. Ketchel, however, was so far gone that he rolled over, came up unsteadily, set himself. And then Ketchel came rushing wildly in, only to be lifted from his feet and sent to the floor.

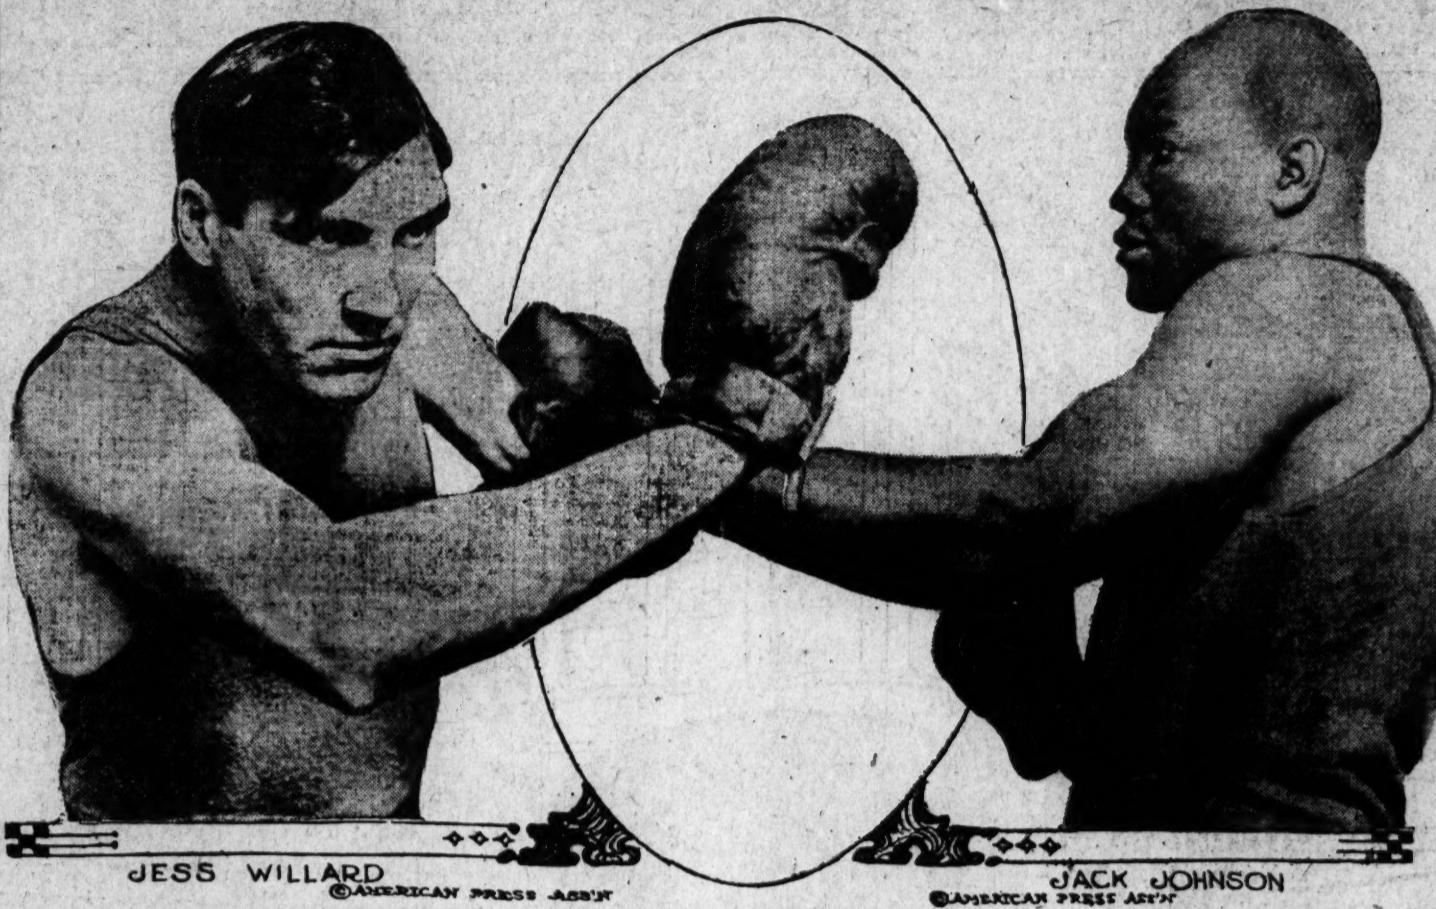

The world's desperado knockout blow. Here, of course, it is not out of place to say that there is a vast difference between Willard, a few feet tall, weighing 225 pounds, and game little Ketchel, the middleweight champion. The howl of the crowd, the roar of the fall, how hard he can hit if he ever feels the need of tearing something loose when he lands his padded mitt. He has a powerful right, but it is not a killing maul when he's hurt. And no one has ever hurt him seriously enough to make him show it except a spasm of pain that ends in the delivery of a knockout.

Not Built Like Jeffries.

Willard has been compared with Jeffries. Although we never saw him, the idea of being affected by a blow I can't say that I consider him big Jeff's equal in rugged strength. Jeffries was built like a Hercules. Every move he made was powerful, ponderous, yet capable of speed. Willard is much taller and his weight is more evenly distributed. He is rugged, but more with the strength of a giant and well-trained man than with the

Games This Year Will Be Run
Off Under Rules of Olympic Federation.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—The long list of entries in the history of the games has been received by the University of Pennsylvania for the relay races to be held here April 23 and 24. In championships and class races they embrace 95 college teams, 54 preparatory school teams, 109 high school teams, 71 grammar school teams and 10 parochial teams, a total of 341 teams. This does not include the special events in which Yale, Harvard, Missouri, Colorado, Oregon, Maine, Bates, South Carolina and other colleges will have entries.

The entries for the championship relay are the ones that are expected to receive the entry fees. The entry for the preparatory school championship raises that event to one of the big features of the meet. The relay race will be conducted under the rules of the Olympic Federation as a relay of seven. The distance will be 1,416 feet further in every mile than here. The track will be measured 12 inches from the pole, as in the case of England, as has been customary in this country.

LEO KELLY, MUCH IMPROVED, MEETS STURDY OPPONENT

Charley Pierson of Kansas City is Expected to Give St. Louisian Hard Fight.

By Harry S. Sharpe.
Referee of the Future City Athletic Club and Post-Dispatch Boxing Authority.

Charley Pierson, the Kansas City welterweight boxer, has agreed to take on Leo Kelly at the Future City Athletic Club next Tuesday night. Judging from the pace Kelly has been setting of late, it would appear that Pierson has undertaken a task which before him has been bidden to appear here, but on one occasion the matter of sending him transportation was entirely overlooked, and on another occasion he refused to come because notice given him arrived too late.

Pierson is not a champion, but he believes in winning if he can and declines to enter the ring unless he is reasonably sure to do so. That will be his position on Tuesday night, as is guaranteed by the fact that he has agreed to weigh in at 145 pounds at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He arrived in St. Louis yesterday.

In and about Kansas City Pierson is well known and his battles with such boxers as "Horn" Brewer, "Wildcat" Ferns and "Bud" Logan stamp him as a good man. He is the willing aggressor sort and is said to be a hard hitter.

Kelly Is Favorite.

Pierson is expected to give Kelly a stiff contest, but the St. Louis boxer has warmed to his work wonderfully of late and the belief is justified that he will prove a worthy opponent.

In the past year Kelly has shown much improvement. He has graduated from the lightweight class and is now well over 145 pounds. He is as fit as he is strong. His recent defeat by Wildcat Ferns and Alton's "Bud" Logan has demonstrated that he has learned how to fight. Like Pierson, he is not a champion, but his willingness to aggress, his cleverness and hitting ability make a good impression and he usually has a large following at the ring.

Making 145 pounds at 3 p. m. for Pierson indicates that Kelly will enter the ring in good condition. In his recent bouts with Ferns and Rowan he was a bit too high in flesh and, though he won from both, it was apparent that he had not a finish as he should. Kelly knows Pierson is a hard man to win from by going in out of condition.

The semi-windup will hardly be of less importance than the main event, bringing together Tom Burke and "Bud" Clancy, and there is keen rivalry in this. Burke has been known to make 158 pounds at 3 p. m., and there is not much difference between that and 145 pounds ringing in.

Burke has been boxing as a professional for a year and has made a good record, defeating Billy Mulligan, Garrison, Al Gandy, Freddy Coyle, "Sailor" Jack, and others. In his last bout with Mulligan, he was matched with Billie Nelson for 145. Billie Nelson, the latter in a St. Louis boxer, conducted a newspaper discussion over Al McCoy, who knocked out Gandy in the ninth round. In the same round at a time Chip was claiming the middleweight title.

A preliminary bout will be boxed by George Witt and Jimmy O'Neill.

SPORT SALAD

BY L.C. DAVIS.

The Passing Show.

LD winter, in the lap of spring. In brazen manner lingers; The players cannot hold the ball; Jacky is lazing for a chance To nip the bloomin' roses;

And, furthermore, It's quite a bore To blow my bloomin' noses.

BAN JOHNSON lingered in our midst Through Saturday and Sunday: He made a call on Phillip Ball And pulled his freight on Monday. Which means the Feds will buy the According to Dame Rumor:

As usual, the Browns refused to "act pretty" for Mr. Ban Johnson. If Ban should sneak in on 'em some day disguised as a common spectator maybe the Rickeyites would win for him.

BOB BECHER still destined to play For Mr. Schuyler Britton; now begins to look as though The Rabbit had been bitten. Jess will fight to win the fight, says Mr. Michael Gibbons; The Easter maid Was on parade And flashed the fancy ribbons.

The Cards literally two-timed the Browns to death. Then, by way of showing their versatility, they made one run in the ninth.

As Brother Rickey would say, it serves 'em right for playing ball on Sunday.

Tommy Long made four hits, two of 'em long ones. Tommy Long is getting along pretty nicely, thank you. So long, Becher.

"Coy" Dolan had a pretty fair day. Coy's contribution to the afternoon's entertainment was two bases on balls, a base on runs and a three-cornered game with the umpire, a policeman and a spectator.

Not a Major League.

For reasons best known to themselves, 300 hitters in the Independent Voters League do not care to have their averages made public.

As Flies.

The flies delight On flies to light And on the balloons, maybe: There may be two Or three on you,

But there are no flies on "Baby."

Jack Johnson is worrying over the loss of a pair of shoes. Maybe Jess Willard is trying 'em on to see if he can fill 'em.

The Island of Cuba became so crowded that Manager Fielder Jones had to take his team away on the morning of the fight.

As usual, the Browns refused to "act pretty" for Mr. Ban Johnson. If Ban should sneak in on 'em some day disguised as a common spectator maybe the Rickeyites would win for him.

Among those present was President Lloyd Kickert of the Terriers in a new Easter bonnet.

Ban Johnson is peev'd over being found in the company of Phil Ball. Phil is reported to be bearing up bravely.

SERIES SIDELIGHTS.

Last night the Cardinals sidetracked the Browns. They're about ready to repeat. The current battling now stands 8-1, in favor of the Cards. Don't be afraid to sharp-shoot another victory.

Feds Have Great Infield.

Good pitching, the secret of the Cards' success. Griner's game yesterday was a beauty. The only hit charged against Big Dan was a pop-up from Joe Rickey. Had Chief Wilson been playing, it would have been a sharp shot.

Back had two strikes and one ball when he came in to pitch in the seventh. That started the fireworks and Griner was treated so harshly he retired in favor of Harry Hoch.

WILLIAMSON—The fans will be won in three of the four games of the series. Griner's game yesterday was knocked out twice. Some he'll know enough to leave these Cardinals alone.

After the game Dolan waited to interview the spectator who had panned him.

"I sure did," said the spectator.

"We'll be sure you feel," said Coy as he hastened to a warm shower.

Not a Major League.

For reasons best known to themselves, 300 hitters in the Independent Voters League do not care to have their averages made public.

TERRIERS DEPART WITHOUT VIEW OF FIGHT FOR TITLE

Fielder Jones, Well Satisfied With His Club, Starts on Homeward Trip Today.

HAVANA, Cuba, April 5.—Fielder Jones' Terriers were the only American winners over the Almendares team, 4 to 3, in the final game here yesterday. Although Jones' men were out hit 2-1, and also outfielded, one biginning—the second—in which all the counts were put across the plate and the Cuban team, in the third, while a pair in the eighth were gifts, bad play by the Indians made five hits off Mendez, the "Black Matty."

As an added attraction, a modified baseball was used. The Indians were present was Jack Johnson, who defends his heavyweight title against Jess Willard, arriving home Thursday.

Bridwell Still Learning.

Al Bridwell, the veteran second-sacker of the Terriers, remarked recently that he had been playing big league baseball for 11 years, but until now had never been able to learn anything new to learn. During a play in which Bridwell figured, a runner on first was caught off the bag and Bridwell, after getting up to cover the runner, when Fielder Jones came tearing in from center field, and getting the put-out at second on the play, Jones explained to his players that he had no other base was occupied but that he might have to participate in trapping the runner between the baselines. By this method Jones would make the throw with one hand and the runner would be put out much easier dodging the fielders and the putout would be made much more certain than left to the second baseman and the first-sacker.

Armando Marsans, the Cuban outfielder, who had joined the Terriers, has been excused from most of the practice sessions by Manager Jones, as he is in great condition and doesn't need much practice to get in shape.

Where have we heard this same thing told before? Ed Willard, the veteran twirler of the Terriers, announced that this is his last season with the club. He made a quiet exit at the end of this season when his contract ran out with the Feds.

Refugee of the Future City Athletic Club and Post-Dispatch Boxing Authority.

Charley Pierson of Kansas City is Expected to Give St. Louisian Hard Fight.

By Harry S. Sharpe.
Referee of the Future City Athletic Club and Post-Dispatch Boxing Authority.

Charley Pierson, the Kansas City welterweight boxer, has agreed to take on Leo Kelly at the Future City Athletic Club next Tuesday night. Judging from the pace Kelly has been setting of late, it would appear that Pierson has undertaken a task which before him has been bidden to appear here, but on one occasion the matter of sending him transportation was entirely overlooked, and on another occasion he refused to come because notice given him arrived too late.

Pierson is not a champion, but he believes in winning if he can and declines to enter the ring unless he is reasonably sure to do so. That will be his position on Tuesday night, as is guaranteed by the fact that he has agreed to weigh in at 145 pounds at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. He arrived in St. Louis yesterday.

In and about Kansas City Pierson is well known and his battles with such boxers as "Horn" Brewer, "Wildcat" Ferns and "Bud" Logan stamp him as a good man. He is the willing aggressor sort and is said to be a hard hitter.

Kelly Is Favorite.

Pierson is expected to give Kelly a stiff contest, but the St. Louis boxer has warmed to his work wonderfully of late and the belief is justified that he will prove a worthy opponent.

In the past year Kelly has shown much improvement. He has graduated from the lightweight class and is now well over 145 pounds. He is as fit as he is strong. His recent defeat by Wildcat Ferns and Alton's "Bud" Logan has demonstrated that he has learned how to fight. Like Pierson, he is not a champion, but his willingness to aggress, his cleverness and hitting ability make a good impression and he usually has a large following at the ring.

Making 145 pounds at 3 p. m. for Pierson indicates that Kelly will enter the ring in good condition. In his recent bouts with Ferns and Rowan he was a bit too high in flesh and, though he won from both, it was apparent that he had not a finish as he should. Kelly knows Pierson is a hard man to win from by going in out of condition.

The semi-windup will hardly be of less importance than the main event, bringing together Tom Burke and "Bud" Clancy, and there is keen rivalry in this. Burke has been known to make 158 pounds at 3 p. m., and there is not much difference between that and 145 pounds ringing in.

Burke has been boxing as a professional for a year and has made a good record, defeating Billy Mulligan, Garrison, Al Gandy, Freddy Coyle, "Sailor" Jack, and others. In his last bout with Mulligan, he was matched with Billie Nelson for 145. Billie Nelson, the latter in a St. Louis boxer, conducted a newspaper discussion over Al McCoy, who knocked out Gandy in the ninth round. In the same round at a time Chip was claiming the middleweight title.

A preliminary bout will be boxed by George Witt and Jimmy O'Neill.

ROBERT T. LINCOLN TO BE WITNESS IN PULLMAN INQUIRY

Son of the Emancipator to Testify Regarding So-Called "Industrial Slavery."

EMPLOYS 6000 PORTERS

General Manager Hungerford Says They Are Paid $27.50 to $47.45 a Month.

CHICAGO, April 5.—The United States Commission on Industrial Relations began its Chicago hearings today, with the wages and working conditions of porters and conductors employed by the Pullman Co. under investigation. Robert T. Lincoln, chairman of the board of directors of the Pullman Co., which employs 6000 porters, is expected to be a witness tomorrow. The son of the "Great Emancipator" should be called upon to testify whether some negroes have become so-called "industrial slaves" caused much comment.

L. S. Hungerford, general manager of the Pullman Co., was the first witness. Asked about the wage scale for porters he said:

"Sleeping car porters receive $27.50 a month; parlor car porters, $32.25; tourist car, $38.75; private cars, $47.45. After 15 years they receive an advance of 5 per cent for long service."

The witness said porters were given two new uniforms a year at the expense of the company after two years of service; that the company supported a liberal pension system, and that good service was rewarded under a bonus system. In normal times the company employed 2500 conductors and 6500 porters, but the number was somewhat below that now.

"The bonus," said Hungerford, "is one month's pay for a clear record, and early failures may be wiped out and a clear record established by subsequent meritorious service."

"How many men receive this bonus?" asked Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the commission.

"In 1913," replied Hungerford, "79 per cent of the conductors and 65 per cent of the porters earned it."

Answering another question, Hungerford said that in 1914, 27 conductors and 60 porters received the 5 per cent automatic advance in wages. This brought the sleeping car porters up to $33.86 a month. The rate of pay to conductors, as given by the witness, follows: First six months, $30; second six months, $35; second year, $38; fifth year, $39; tenth year, $36; on special limited trains, $30.

CAIRO MAN DISAPPEARS; DISCREPANCY IN ACCOUNTS

Prosecutor to Issue Warrant for Manager of Site Manufacturing Firm

CAIRO, Ill., April 5.—C. E. Bangs, manager of the McClure Co., a silo manufacturing concern with offices here and at Saginaw, Mich., disappeared Saturday night. State's Attorney Alex Wilson said today that officials of the company have said there is a discrepancy of $9000 in Bangs' account. On this statement the prosecutor said he would issue a warrant for the man's arrest.

Bangs has been a leader in a young social set and fond of entertaining. Several months ago he and his wife were divorced. The cause of the estrangement was not made public.

Recently representatives from the Saginaw office visited Cairo; when there was a banquet at the firm's salons. At that time they made a careful examination of the books. Bangs is said to have left a note to a friend saying matters were coming up which he did not care to discuss.

NEW TRIAL FOR COYLE SUIT

University City's Motion Granted by Judge McElhinney.

A motion for a new trial in the suit of James F. Coyle, former treasurer of University City, and Edward G. Shall, administrator, was granted by Judge McElhinney of the Circuit Court at Clayton this morning.

The suit is to recover $25,137 from the Coyle estate, representing the unused proceeds of a $100,000 bond issue, which was passed in 1910. Coyle was treasurer and the unused proceeds were placed in the People's Savings Trust Co. of University City of which Edward G. Lewis was the promoter and which shortly afterward went into the hands of a receiver.

Judge McElhinney said that a new trial was granted on the ground of errors and that the jury had admitted incompetent testimony.

ALL SKIRTS SHORT IN FIFTH AVENUE EASTER PARADE

NEW YORK, April 5.—The last place in the world to observe the fashionables is Fifth Avenue on Easter Sunday. However, that makes no difference in a fashion story; for nowadays the un-fashionables, who are always present, are more fashionable than the fashions. That is the reason for this. Is it not true that the un-fashionables are so eager to be fashionable that it is fashionable among the fashionables to be un-fashionable by contrast?

But what a reporter saw was, enormously full tunics over tight skirts and tight tunics over enormously full skirts. Yesterday you could pick out the followers of Worth, Beers, Paquin by the order in which they had distributed the fullness. One thing was certain! At least the top or bottom must be tight. It was simply a matter of choice.

The one thing the fashion designers had agreed upon, evidently, was that all frocks must be made short. Need it be stated that the greatest array of hoseery which has ever been shown presented to Fifth Avenue?

Hats? They were extremely simple. For the most part they looked as if they were merely crowns cut from last year's hats, with a quill or single flower adorning them.

The waist line has been put about two inches below the arm pits. And the jacket ends with a little ruffle. You may readily see why it is necessary to have the skirt cut so short. It shortens the line and then one simply must make the ankles attractive—hence the elaborate hose.

A few of the persons who are universally admitted to "belong" ventured forth. Wrapped in their furs and winter finery, they passed unnoticed through the crowd of spectators who had come to see them.

Hard times and the hard snowstorm on Saturday broke heavily into the Easter flower trade, according to the dealers. Some estimated that nearly $1,000,000 was lost by jobbers, speculators and small storekeepers. The Union Square flower show, which usually brings in from $20,000 to $40,000, had to be abandoned on account of the storm.

Small dealers and speculators had bought heavily in anticipation of a big sale. But there was a falling off everywhere. Even in the churches the flower display seemed to be less elaborate.

MORMON CHURCH REAPED $1,887,920 IN TITHES IN 1914

First Public Financial Report of Church Shows That $730,960 Was Spent on Buildings.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 5.—The first public financial statement ever issued by the Mormon Church was presented in the tabernacle yesterday before the annual conference. The report shows that the church collected $1,887,920 from tithes in 1914, of which $780,860 was expended on church buildings, $330,880 to maintain the church schools, $24,500 to maintain the Mormon temples, $227,900 for missionary offices, $29,223 to complete and maintain a hospital in Salt Lake City, and $116,338 on the poor.

The report also shows that the Mormon relief societies and the local church organizations gave $150,200 additional for the relief of the poor, and that the European war relief fund of the church amounted to $83,000, which has been sent abroad to be disbursed through the church's representatives. The expenses of the general offices of the churches are not paid from tithing, the report says, but from revenue derived from the church's investments. The report shows a net increase in the membership of the church of 129,453 for the period from 1901 to 1914, a birthrate of 33.8 a thousand, a death rate of 8.3 a thousand and a marriage rate of 17 a thousand in 1914.

Unbaiting the Hook

In this instance the bait was a $50,000 windfall, which when spurned by the man, the girl scheming to marry him, suddenly changed her attitude.

By Augustus Goodrich Sherwin.

P LAIN, honest John Edgerly drove his plow steadily and cheerfully. It was not much of a farm, but it brought him a living.

More than once had he been tempted to sell and invest in some small business in the brisk, promising city. He had become cured of that, however, during the last month. Several venturesome young fellows like himself had tried metropolitan ambition and had returned home, disconsolate and sick of an experience that had turned out hollow and unfriendly.

Then, too, just that bright, lovely morning John had made up his mind to something. He had been keeping company with Vera Brooks for some time back. Vera was modest and humble as the former was bent on entrapping him as his rich son-in-law.

"I'll settle down," ruminated John contentedly. "Yes, that's the best way."

It looked so to him. Vera would make an ideal wife. Her folks were poor, she would appreciate a good home. Small as the little homestead was, it was comfortable and fairly furnished. Love would beautify it. They would work together and save, and some day they might own a better place in the town, like Judge Grinnell and his haughty eminence of a daughter, Ivy.

"I'll ask Vera this very evening," resolved John, and was happy in the thought. "Whoa!"

John just finishing a furrow, looked up to discover a buggy halted just beyond the fence. It sat the very object of his recent thoughts—the Judge and his daughter. The former leaped from the vehicle as if John was his greatest friend in the world. Miss Grinnell smiled at him—thing she had never done before.

"Hello!" muttered John, "what's up?"

The $50,000 Legacy.

JUDGE hurried through the fence rails. He looked excited, the bearer of great news. He grasped John's hand and shook it feverishly.

"John," he said, "I'm going to startle you."

"About what?" inquired the young farmer.

"You had an uncle, Josiah Whiting, in the city."

"My mother's brother, yes," nodded John.

"He's dead, and he has left you a fortune of $50,000 in money, or as good as money."

"Why," observed John, quite calmly and thoughtfully, "what about his son, Randal?"

"Dead two years ago."

"And Randal's family?"

"They don't count," asserted the Judge. "You are the heir. The executor has just written me, asking me to see you and advise with you. As a lawyer I inform you that there is no doubt of the legacy. All you have got to do is to come to the city with us."

"Us?" repeated John.

"Yes, I was going to the city anyway," explained Miss Grinnell sweetly, "so papa dear says I had better go at this opportunity."

"If I've got $50,000 coming to me," remarked John, "why don't they send it to me?"

"Formalities, my boy, announced the Judge affusively. "There's some legal proceedings to go through. We'll have to leave at once. John. And, by the way, as your lawyer I request that you keep this a secret until your return."

John rubbed his chin reflectively. He was quite stunned with the good fortune announced. Still, he was conservative, and, in a measure, suspicious.

"Judge," he said finally, "this may be all right, and again it may not. Mind, I don't doubt your word, but it will cost me something to visit the city. I'll have to get a new suit. I'll need some cash to live there, even for a few days. I have only a little money saved up."

"Risk it? Risk it?" shouted his visitor. "Why, I'm sure of your statement that I shall leave you a hundred and two, and if the expectation fails you need never pay me back."

"That's fair," said John, in his blunt, practical way.

John Takes a Hand.

It was settled that John was to get ready at once. The Judge never let him out of his sight. John arched his back, a weighty silent sentinel to the little family during his absence. He longed to see Vera and tell her the good news. The Judge, however, stuck to him like a brother. Two hours later, quite a reconstructed John, the young farmer, was aboard a train, seated beside the Judge's daughter, bound for the city.

John was quite flattered by the attention of Miss Grinnell. In fact, she somewhat attracted him. They all went to the same hotel. For two days the Judge left the young folks to good

'DUMDUM' SPEECHES BARRED AT DEMOCRATIC 'PEACE' FEAST

Hearst, Murphy and Hennessy to Be Guests at Jefferson Day Banquet in New York.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Various elements of the Democratic party are represented in the list of speakers and guests made public today by the committee in charge of the annual Jefferson day banquet of the National Democratic Club, to be held here April 12. The committee said: "It is not expected that the general outpouring of thought will contain any dum dum expressions," and referred to some of the men to be seated at the guest table as "peace delegates."

Among the men so named are William R. Hearst, Charles F. Murphy, Francis Lynde Stetson, United States Senator James A. O'Gorman, William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and John A. Hennessy.

The list of speakers includes Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War; Thomas M. Gregory, Attorney-General; Con Johnson, Solicitor of the State Department; Collector Malone of the Port of New York; United States Senators Lewis of Illinois and Johnson of Maine, and Representative Hefflin of Alabama.

The Dinner Committee intimated that some of the speakers might sound "the keynote for the 1916 presidential campaign."

MAN FALLS FROM LAUNCH, SWIMS HALF MILE, DROWNS

Motor in Boat Stops and Companions Are Unable to Start It and Go to His Aid.

Elmer Miller, 25 years old, of St. Charles, fell from a launch and drowned in the Missouri River near St. Charles yesterday. He swam for nearly half a mile before his strength gave out. Two companions were unable to start the motor after they had stopped it in the first moment of excitement and were unable to rescue him.

Miller, his brother, Oliver, and Ed Hesse, tailor, 4th and Pine, Pierce Bldg.

Kelley had taken the boat out for the first time this year. Miller was running it when he noticed a canopy support was loose. He leaned over to tighten it and the boat swerved, throwing him into the water.

Oliver and Miller and Kelley, when they saw they could be of no assistance, called to persons on the shore and several put out in skiffs and launches. Before they could get to the struggling man, however, the cold water and swift current proved too much for him.

THREE MEN BEATEN TO DEATH WITH CLEAVERS IN A CELLAR

Proprietor of New York Restaurant, His Porter and Cook Found Killed by Burglars.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Otto Zinn, a restaurant keeper, and two of his employees, a porter and a cook, were killed early today in Zinn's restaurant, supposedly by burglars. Zinn and his wife, who occupied a room above the restaurant, were awakened by a crash downstairs and the proprietor went down to investigate. When he failed to return his wife called a policeman who found the restaurant keeper and his two employees in the cellar.

In the cellar were found also a safe which had been moved from the floor above and evidently thrown downstairs. It had not been broken open. Beside the men lay three cleavers with which the burglars had battered in their victims heads. The police found also a revolver and a set of burglars' tools.

There was evidence that the men who committed the crime had secreted themselves in the cellar after eating a meal in the restaurant. The porter and the cook had been surprised and killed when they went to get coal.

'Achievement,' Watchword of the New Unionism for the Working Woman, Says Miss Anne Morgan

She Is Reaching Out for the Girl Who Is Ambitious

Daughter of Millions Declares
Standardization of Work Is Great Object to Attain.

CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED

Equal Political Rights Will Come, She Says, but Is Not
Most Important Thing Now.

NEW YORK, April 5.

MISS ANNE MORGAN, who in the ideals she put into practice, is the exponent of the New Unionism for women in the field of labor, in an interview with a writer for the Post-Dispatch and the New York World, gave her vision for her wage-earning sisters.

This daughter of millions, seated in her own sanctum on the top floor of the Morgan house—a room that might have been transplanted from a French chateau, with American beauty roses in the jardinières on either side of the white hearth of the open fireplace—outlined a plan for women who work.

It is a plan that demands, first and last, room for achievement—not specialization for the manufacturer or promoter, not some shred of a trade or some narrow executive groove, but the opportunity of development along the line of ambition and ability, as the basis of greatest and best position, of security and ease in later life; as a solution, in short, of the eternal grind of monotony and poverty.

Miss Morgan is so far personally concerned with the working girl that she is giving herself heart and soul to the circus of the Vacation Committee next Saturday night at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, in which 30 of these young women will perform in all parts, from a clown to an elephant. And while she could go so far as to lend her own house for a rehearsal of the "greatest show" and help along the acts by personal direction, she was moved not only by her desire to make the benefit for the girls a big one, but also to teach the girls themselves how to play.

It is all part of the general scheme which for a number of years past Miss Morgan has been evolving through study and experience.

"They don't know how to play—they have not had the habit—we have to teach them," said Miss Morgan. "That is all part of the personal touch. That is why I like the Vacation Committee, why I believe in the Strand dance hall. I am in favor of organization. Yes, every girl and woman who works needs to know what organization means, to know that in a collection of 500 to 6000 workers each cannot have individual expression. There is discipline in a union that modifies and tones.

"But while I believe in organization, I am not at all in favor of trade unionism in its present working out. It is bad for all concerned. Every question is reduced to one of the offensive and defensive.

Girls' and Employers' Interests Are Identical.

"NESTEAD of warfare we want co-operation, accomplishment. The girls' and the employers' interests are identical. Both want efficiency, the employers for the betterment of their business, the girls for permanency of occupation and security of living.

"Today is woman's opportunity to bring her interpretation into the relations of labor and capital. It is her chance if she can only be brought to see it. A woman is more patient, more understanding of another person's viewpoint than a man. She is the natural arbiter.

"Today trades unionism is nothing more than a question of salary and hours. But that is after all not the true consideration. That is the standardizing of work. Granted that the living wage and the time to live are a right as well as a necessity, work was never a mathematical calculation of hours and dollars.

"We all know that in any task we may at times greatly overtax ourselves to accomplish something worth while. Such a foot rule is a bid for mediocrity. It is like our public schools.

"Our schools are planned only for the children of mediocre intelligence, but there is not the smallest provision for the supernormal child. What we want in this world is achievement. It is the influence of spaces on the young workers who live cramped lives in small and unwholesome places. That is why she is interested in the Girls' Camp, for which a piece of the Harriman property at Greenwood Lake was given. They will sleep in tents and have as much privacy as possible and room "to stretch themselves."

"The responsibility is pressing everywhere, pressing more and more heavily. It is there without the vote—the responsibility for the wage-earner as well as the woman not called upon to earn her bread. We have got to look to the ballot box to see it in every side."

Miss Morgan is a great believer in the influence of spaces on the young workers who live cramped lives in small and unwholesome places. That is why she is interested in the Girls' Camp, for which a piece of the Harriman property at Greenwood Lake was given. They will sleep in tents and have as much privacy as possible and room "to stretch themselves."

"The big out-of-doors is the best thing they went on Miss Morgan. "It may seem odd, but the girls we take will have to pay $3 a week and probably $3 for their equipment. It is the girls who have begun to achieve who will come. We shall sell the stock to them at $10 a day for the 30 days the couple lived together.

"While no official announcement has been made, it is understood that Mrs. Dockery received that amount with her divorce. Maj. J. M. Dockery, at 1800 Main, turned his home to the Major left his home and announced he would never return while his wife was there. Her suit for divorce followed. She was the third wife of the Major.

MISS ANNE MORGAN

MISS ANNE MORGAN.

Miss Anne Morgan's Views on the Standardization of Work

I BELIEVE IN organization, but am not at all in favor of trade unionism in its present working out.

"Today trades unionism is nothing more than a question of salary and hours. But that is, after all, not the true consideration. It is the standardization of work.

"Work was never a mathematical calculation of hours and dollars. Such a foot rule is a bid for mediocrity. It is like our public schools. Our schools are planned only for the children of mediocre intelligence, but there is not the smallest provision for the supernormal child.

WHAT we want in this world is achievement. It is not the girl at the bottom we are reaching out for, but the girl who has proved herself, who wants something better and is striving for something better.

"I cannot persuade myself that suffrage is the important thing for women now. It is coming, of course; it is bound to come; it must come automatically, sooner or later. Women need public life, civic life; responsibility is pressing everywhere for the wage earner."

her work.

"Suffrage for working women?" asked Miss Morgan. She was sorting the pictures of her circus girls as she spoke and stopped with a group of the Indians in her firm white hand to consider the question.

"I cannot persuade myself that suffrage is the important thing for women now. It is coming, of course; it is bound to come; it must come automatically, sooner or later. When I say suffrage I distinctly divide it from political life. In my mind political life is public life, civic life, and women's responsibility is pressing everywhere for the wage earner."

BRIEF MARRIED LIFE COSTS COTTON MAN $366 A DAY

Memphis Resident Said to Have Paid
$11,000 to Bride When They Separated.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 5.—The marriage of Maj. J. M. Dockery, to Idia M. Turner, which resulted in a divorce action here, is said to have cost the aged Memphis man $11,000, or about $366 a day for the 30 days the couple lived together.

The responsibility is pressing everywhere, pressing more and more heavily. It is there without the vote—the responsibility for the wage-earner as well as the woman not called upon to earn her bread. We have got to look to the ballot box to see it in every side."

Miss Morgan is a great believer in the influence of spaces on the young workers who live cramped lives in small and unwholesome places. That is why she is interested in the Girls' Camp, for which a piece of the Harriman property at Greenwood Lake was given. They will sleep in tents and have as much privacy as possible and room "to stretch themselves."

EAST ST. LOUIS TO BALLOT
ON HER 50TH ANNIVERSARY

East St. Louis will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary as a city tomorrow, April 6. Mayor John M. Chambelin by a plurality of 2500 to 3000, and City Treasurer City Clerk, Attorney and 13 members of the County Board of Supervisors, East St. Louis, were voted for city officers for the first time.

EDWARD B. CRAWFORD AND J. F. MURPHY ARE THE CANDIDATES.

"YES, they need to know how to play"—Miss Morgan was critically studying a picture of the cowboys—"and the circus is a lark for us all. We hope to swell the vacation crowd tremendously."

There will be a dress rehearsal of the circus on Friday night at a dollar admission, but real circus prices, $5 and 50 cents, will prevail (except for the boxes) Saturday night when the girls who are achieving, who want something better and are working toward it, will pause for a moment in the struggle to entertain as the bareback riders and the clowns and the acrobats, as the "rube" band, and even as the trained animals.

Miss Morgan, who is trying to work out their problem with them, puts in certain conditions the eight who were suspended will be placed on probation and allowed to continue their class work, but they may not take part in any student or university part. It had been rumored that a considerable number of students have been concerned, but the investigation of the university council failed to show any basis whatever for these rumors.

Candidate for Mayor of Wood River.

Dr. J. C. Helper, a Wood River physician, has been a part of the campaign begun circulating a picture of the cowboys—"and the circus is a lark for us all. We hope to swell the vacation crowd tremendously."

QUOTATIONS ON SECURITIES ARE ON THE UP TURN

Early Market Shows Sharp
Fractional Gains on the Active Shares.

NEW YORK, April 5.

Quotations on stocks were steady at the opening of the market today, although active trading was confined to a few issues. Traders construed the foreign market summary:

"The Wall Street Summary said: "Athens dispatch says Darnanelles arrived, but delayed several weeks, as big preparations were making."

"Hungarian Premier gives famine warning."

"Metal copper production of Lake Superior County is estimated at 22,000 pounds, almost a record."

"It is expected that German cruiser Prinz Eitel will intern at Newport News."

"Hearing in Government suit to dissolve American Can Co. are resumed at Chicago."

"Newspaper head advocates re-service for soldiers, such as is now required for banks."

"Up to present $900,000 has been paid in cash on second German war loan."

'Bill'

In Which Bill's Mother Gives the Office a House Cleaning and Bill Does a Heroic Deed.

By Paul West.

"So" says Ethel, wan day when I come in offen me lunch, "you've been up to it again, I see." "Up to which?" I says. "Whatever it is, th' Boss is just sent fer th' Soop about it, an' he's hot-footin' it up here on th' express elevator. 'Tis not too late," she says, "fer yeou to be duckin', if yer guilty, as I s'pose y' are." "S'that so?" I says. "Well, any wan what's sayin' anything about me is a liar," I says, but when th' Soop comes in, right then, an' starts fer th' elevator cage, I beggar you to give an imitation of a cow o' custard, ad' 'twas all I could do not to duck in th'scrappin' hat an' pull it over me. Anyhow, I made a run ferith doot to th' Boss's dump, fer to take what might be sittin' through th' keyhole.

"Gwan away an' leave me lissen," says Ethel. "I' might be able for to stand th' shock, an' I'll break it gentl-like to youse." "Yeah," I says, "about as gentle as an elefant steppin' on an egg, youse would!" "Is me trial?" I says, "an' I'll do th' lissenin'."

So I gave her a shove away an' tried fer to hear what's goin' on inside. Ad' be comin' inside o' two minutes. I was as jealous as a boy in jail watchin' his own lodges peerade be th' window! "Twassen' about me at all, but th' Landbridge th' Boss was spreadin' over th' poor Soop—well, I thought I'd got some fancy conversations outen him, but th' toughest he ever passed me, compared to th' way he was lashin' th' Soop. I could o' used fer recommendations fer a new job!

An' he was doin' it that soft way o' his, y' know like melted butter, so at first y' think he's praisin' you, till it starts smartin'!

"Ah, I says to th' Soop whin he comes in, 'I'll seat, Mister Soop'rindint,' he says. "Fine wedder we're havin' now," he says. "Ellegant fer us farmers, I' pose," he says, "youse'll be startin' th' plowin' pretty soon now." "Plowin', Mister Hadley?" says th' Soop, not gittin' him. "Well, I' right here, in this general o' real estate run out fer a privat office," he says. "Or mabbe," he says, whin th' Soop started fer to gag, "it's yer intention fer to begin' turnin' over out in th' main room first. 'Tis immaterial to me," he goes on, "only here 'tis th' ba'mont o' April, wid all th' frost out o' th' green, an' if y' expect me fer to raise me proper amount o' vegetables 'tis time y' got it hands at work."

he Boss Gives the Soop

a Hawlin' Out in Private.

NELL, is the time th' poor people in need o' wan o' them pullmeters, an' all he kin say is, "I quite get youse, Mister Hadley." says th' Boss. "Why, I was al'n to th' winter's accumulation o' state on th' floors an' in the crevoun' them here offices," he says. "Ira," he says, "I was goin' ter plain about what seemed a lack o' action on th' part o' th' ladies who e' here every Sat'day afternoon pass th' mop an' scrubbin' brush o'er th' premises. But when I seen how deep th' soil was I realized Iwasn't a case that merely not re-acted to th' general accumulation—it must be that somebody (an' knowin' yer t'oughthfulness fer th' tins) I give youse th' credit), was luggin' th' dirt in th' wheelbarrow an' spreadin' it over th' floors."

An' th'ne Soop blowed out all his four tires to wanse: "I'll fire them women," he says. "Tell th' ladies not to be puttin' themselves out, but amny afternoon now they kin spare from th' knittin' socks fer 'em Belgians, or moron' through th' park, they'll be walkin' up here in th' flowers which'll surely be sprin'g on th' windysills if they don't clean 'em off!" Have a sugar," he says, "an' come again!" An' he shows th' poor gink out on flat tires!

"Would oblige me," says th' Boss, openin' th' door for him. "Tell th' ladies not to be puttin' themselves out, but amny afternoon now they kin spare from th' knittin' socks fer 'em Belgians, or moron' through th' park, they'll be walkin' up here in th' flowers which'll surely be sprin'g on th' windysills if they don't clean 'em off!" Have a sugar," he says, "an' come again!" An' he shows th' poor gink out on flat tires!

"Would oblige me," says th' Boss, openin' th' door for him. "Tell th' ladies not to be puttin' themselves out, but amny afternoon now they kin spare from th' knittin' socks fer 'em Belgians, or moron' through th' park, they'll be walkin' up here in th' flowers which'll surely be sprin'g on th' windysills if they don't clean 'em off!" Have a sugar," he says, "an' come again!" An' he shows th' poor gink out on flat tires!
